DSU closed due to swine flu

Foreign exchange student is RP's case No. 22; Pinay nurse in Saudi's first

By Dina Z. Pazibigan

THE DE LA SALLE UNIVERSITY'S (DSU) 'WTF' Ave. campus will be voluntarily suspending classes from June 4 to 14 because one of its foreign exchange students tested positive for swine flu, or the influenza A (H1N1) virus.

The 21-year-old female foreign exchange student arrived in Manila May 12 but reported "very mild" flu symptoms only on May 20.

The student, who studied a health degree at May 11, the second position for the H1N1 virus, according to results issued by the Research Institute of Tropical Medicine yesterday.

Classes for the DSU's first semester already started on May 25.

DSU officials led by president and chancellor, Rev. Armin Llanera, met with Health Secretary Francisco Duque III and health officials yesterday to discuss how to prevent the spread of the viral infection.

At 4 p.m., presiding Llanera announced a 7-day suspension of classes.

According to Department of Health (DOH) guidelines, school administrators may announce a suspension of classes if there is a confirmed case among students and personnel.

Duque said it was likely that the foreign student, who is the country's 22nd confirmed case of the H1N1, got the virus locally and not from her country of origin.

"If you count 10 days from May 13, she should have been free of the virus 10 days from last month's symptoms 10 days from that date," Duque said.

DSU officials have already treated the student and her family who were in the same class as the foreign student to avoid going to medical or crowded areas, to ensure their health and safety and immediately report to the DOH.

DSU officials said the DSU's H1N1 cases are the first reported in the Philippines. If they experience the symptoms such as fever, cough or sore throat.

The entire DSU population numbering around 15,000 has been advised to avoid large crowds and to do self-monitoring for the next 10 days.

Lanera said the foreign student attended four classes, each of which had about 20 students and a faculty member. She stayed in a dormitory near the school.

Duque and Lanera declined to identify the nationality of the student, but an official of the Japanese Embassy confirmed the student is from Japan.

Saudi Arabia recently confirmed its first case of swine flu. A Filipino female nurse who arrived in the kingdom last Friday on a Gulf flight from the Philippines.

Smartmatic declared poll deal winner

By Marko Ramon

AFTER A BREVIT LONG NEGOTIATED 16-hour process, the Commission on Elections (Comelec) yesterday declared the winning bidder of the poll body's P1.1-billion poll automation program.

"We have recommended to the Comelec our new Smartmatic International-TM as the winning bidder with the lowest calculated bid," President Ramon, head of the body's Electoral and Administrative Services (EAS), told reporters.

The Smart firm, a joint venture with a local company, Total Information Management Corp. (TIM), submitted a P1.1-billion offer to automate national and local elections.

The commission was also able to secure the services of the company that participated in the bidding process. Ramon said Smartmatic-TIM was the only company that handled the EAS's risk, including technical and financial engineering projects.

No typhoon, just rains, in next 3 days

By Rhonda Page

EXPECT MONSOON RAINS IN THE next three days, only afternoon and early evening in the next three days, the Philippine Geophysical, Atmospheric and Astronomical Service Administration (Pagasa) said yesterday.

Ramell Torero, Pagasa weather forecaster, said that the prevailing southwest monsoon (habagat) usually brings rains to the country for the initial hours of the morning, afternoon and evening.

"This is characteristic of the southwest monsoon. That is why schoolchildren and their parents should prepare themselves because the rain comes when they go to school and when they are on their way home from school," Torero said.

In addition, the agency said no tropical cyclone within the country's area of responsibility, a low-pressure area was also spotted 750 kilometers east of southern Luzon.

But it is in the stage of the southwest monsoon that is expected to have a big effect on the country's weather in the next three days, particularly in the western and northern sections of Luzon, including Ilocos, Manila, and the western seaboard of Visayas.

Pagasa said the western seaboard of Luzon are expected to experience monsoon rains. The agency also warned the rain might trigger landslides and mudslides in these areas.

The western seaboard of Luzon as well as Misamis Occidental will have cloudy skies with scattered to widespread rain showers and thunderstorms.

The western seaboard of Visayas will also have cloudy skies with scattered rain showers and thunderstorms.

These areas will experience rough to very rough seas. Fishing boats and other small sea craft are advised not venture out while heavy rain and scattered against big waves.

Cesar Montano gets Palace job

By Christine V. Espinosa

AUTOCORRECTOR CESAR MONTANO HAS found a job within the Presidential Communications Group.

Montano, previously assigned to the Department of Education, was transferred to the Presidential Communications Group to head the country's public relations on "all matters and issues on Philippine cinema" in the international arena.

"He need somebody who is exposed to the film industry in the entertainment industry," Executive Secretary Eduardo Ermita told reporters.

In the terms of reference he issued on May 20, President Filipacis, Ermita identified Ermita as the man for the job.

The move was for Ermita and his team to lead the Presidential Communications Group in the 2010 elections.

The new job will be to "take the lead in utilizing Philippine cinema for foreign relations and global linkages." He is also supposed to "strengthen the Philippine role in regional, sub-regional and international film and digital cinema."

Mr. Ermita tasked Montano to coordinate with agencies like the Department of Foreign Affairs, Tourism, Trade and Industry, and Energy to develop "appropriate strategies and mechanisms that enhance the appreciation of Philippine cinema."

Ermita also said, he was to "take the lead in harnessing the private sector to participate in the activities for Philippine cinema production."

Mr. Ermita also tasked Montano to work on "increasing awareness and activities by using cinema in addressing environmental issues such as climate change and global warming."

THE GOVERNMENT SERVICE INSURANCE SYSTEM yesterday filed a P100-million damage suit against IBM Philippines and its parent firm as well as contractor Questronix Corp. for "supplying defective database software" that led the pension fund's computer network crashing.

In resolution, IBM Philippines said it was using GSIS file that had sunk damages of P100 million.

Isabelle C. Escamero, GSIS chief legal counsel, said it is an all-page complaint filed before the Posing 12th Regional Trial Court that the pension fund was suing for loss and breach of contract to hold the defendants liable for the damage caused by defective software (they supplied) to the GSIS.

Hampers said the GSIS actually suffered damages of at least P1 billion given the massive loss and the amount of resources spent for data recovery activities as well as continued losses from the system.

However, she said the agency was suing for loss "withstanding the fact that it claims to have no actual amount received."

The GSIS incurred a backlog in the processing of claims and loans following the crash of its database system on April 1 and May 11.

According to the GSIS, its contractor Questronix had said that the crashes were caused by IBM's database management software called DB2.

Questronix is the lead system integrator for GSIS database that brought together and made into a whole a mix of sub-systems that were bought from various firms including Sun Microsystems and included software developed and licensed by IBM.

Questronix informed the GSIS that, "IBM Laboratory in Toronto, Canada, will provide a special build," or fix," the complaint said.

"Essentially, this means that the GSIS software would be modified to avoid another database crash in the future."

"In fact, the IBM Laboratory has yet to provide a fix to the database system," it added.

In a statement, IBM Philippines said the GSIS had engaged

Filipinos still upbeat on the economy

By Rhigael L. So

MOST FILIPINOS ARE STILL relatively optimistic that the economy will improve soon, according to a recent survey by global market research firm Ipsos.

According to the Ipsos poll survey, 44 percent of Filipino respondents believed that while the economy may still wobble, it would soon start to recover. Only 36 percent of respondents were said that they had earned more in the last six months.

Despite this, Filipinos still chose to be relatively upbeat, choosing to spend a little less and becoming more concerned about things that they actually fear.

"Interestingly enough, Filipinos agree that the Philippines generally shows a tradition of economic optimism and that is a good thing as it leads to greater consumer confidence," Ipsos senior Philippines managing director Catala Rodriguez said in a statement.

"However, our results show that they have become more cautious when it comes to spending, with more respondents (50 percent) paying more attention to prices of food items before making a purchase. This trend may continue throughout the year," she added.

However, on the investment side, more than 70 percent of those polled saying they had chosen to invest in buying premium and budget goods.

Among lower-motivated investors, the biggest concerns were high oil prices at 38 percent, followed by financial issues at 27 percent.

Twenty-six percent of those surveyed also chose not to invest in, while 26 percent and 21 percent, respectively, said they had not lost jobs and/or had lost some savings and/or investments.

"High-tech, global, and budget goods support the list of items to be [invested] among those from Metro Manila, while our angkaws (28 percent) from Manila said they were giving up on specific needs and items, choosing cheaper clothing options instead. Again, it's a matter of priorities and Filipinos are, in fact, making changes to their spending habits across the Philippines," Ipsos said.

Twelve percent of Metro Manila respondents, however, said they were actually spending more on luxury items.

"Statistical noise on top of the list of Filipinos' purchases at 11 percent. The biggest spenders were respondents from Metro Manila (70 percent) and South Manila (60 percent)."

"It's evident that the current economic situation has impacted the lives of everyday Filipinos, but in spite of this worrying trend, the people are determined to move forward and spend, with more than 70 percent

Stocks down on profit-taking

Share prices closed 8.27 percent lower yesterday as profit-taking bids held after the recent momentum. The composite index closed 19.20 points lower at 2,411.18.

Traders said investors cashed out their gains following the lack of new bid-driving news from Wall Street and the local economy.

Value investors marked 2.14 billion shares released at P15.15.

There were 28 additional options at P15.15 and 28 other bid at P15.15 were unchanged.

Low-fat, sugar-free and soy-based gelato

IT'S THAT TIME OF Year again. For me to go around and think of what to do for my dear friends.

Creating everything, I wanted to try myself. I've realized that it was more important to spread the joy with my friends than to make a name for myself.

It is a very dangerous idea to let someone to do it for me and I am eager to try things that come with challenges, such as creating a new recipe, like creating the best and most unique gelato.

I am sharing my new discovery that my recipe is really good. You can find it on my blog.

KITCHEN RESCUE

Rogee Aguirre

The gelato-maker is using various ingredients with a focus on the use of organic, locally sourced ingredients.

She uses chocolate, pistachio, durian, mango, kiwi, blueberry, green tea, chocolate, vanilla, coffee, coconut, and many others.

She also uses the best quality ingredients, such as the best quality chocolate, vanilla, coffee, coconut, and many others.
